Press Release – Nemak at Euroguss 2016

Nemak focusses on lightweight solutions for car body structure at Euroguss trade fair

The presentation of Nemak at Europe's leading trade fair for the die casting industry concentrates on processes and products related to structural components for the automotive business. In addition, a broad variety of solutions and innovations for powertrain is shown from January 12-14, 2016, in Nuremberg, Germany.

Nemak, S.A.B. de C.V. (Nemak), a leading provider of innovative light weighting solutions for the global automotive industry, focusses on structural components with its presentation at Europe's leading international trade fair for die casting, Euroguss, from January 11-13, 2016. This is the business area Nemak, well known for aluminum powertrain solutions, is strengthening for further success.

At Nemak's booth in Hall 7a within the Nuremberg exhibition center different types of products for the car body structure are shown – including a 1:1 model of a rear interior car structure with cast longitudinal members and shock towers, both produced for one of the world's leading premium automotive brands.

Next to a wide display of products, Nemak shows their range of casting technologies offered to customers to tailor-make the optimal solution for their application. A special focus lies on high pressure die casting, used for the production of structural components for the automotive business.

And of course the whole portfolio for powertrain solutions – from cylinder heads over engine blocks to transmission housings and oil pans – can be visited to get the complete picture about one of the world's leading supplier for aluminum car components.
